Online & Blended Courses in Statistics

Online courses can reach thousands or millions. Blended courses mix online and face-to-face or group meetings, and must be somewhat smaller, reaching, tens to hundreds, maybe a few thousand. There are now a number of online courses with statistics content. It is unclear at this time about the quality of these courses, or how they might or might not be equivalent to courses at UW. It is also unclear whether certain statistical concepts and methods lend themselves to online courses at this time.
